④ US: Disinflation trends and rising unemployment could prompt Fed to cut rates

US Consumer Price Index (CPI) gained +0.2% mom in August, unchanged from July. On a yoy basis, CPI cooled to +2.5% (July: +2.9%). Core CPI rose +0.3% in August, up from +0.2% in July, and held steady at +3.2% yoy from July. Separately, the Fed's preferred inflation gauge, the core PCE inflation rose +0.2% mom in July (June: +0.2%), making for a yoy increase of +2.6% (June: +2.6%) (Note: August's figures are not out yet at the time of writing). Separately, the unemployment rate cooled to 4.2% in August (July: 4.3%).

④ EU: Disinflation trends could prompt more rate cuts by the ECB

The Eurozone producer price index (PPI) further declined (albeit at a slower pace), reaching -2.1% yoy in July (June: -3.2%) (15th consecutive months of decline). Meanwhile, the unemployment rate was stable at 6.4% in July (June: 6.5%). Eurozone composite purchasing managers' index (PMI) recorded 51.0% in August vs 50.2% in July. Finally, data showed that annual inflation in the eurozone was estimated at 2.2% in August, down from 2.6% in July.

④ China: Mixed economic data

The China's manufacturing PMI declined to 49.1% in August from July's 49.4%, marking the fourth consecutive month in contraction territory. Non-manufacturing PMI came in at 50.3% in August, up from 50.2% in July. In contrast, the Caixin/S&P Global manufacturing PMI rose to 50.4% in August 2024 from 49.8% in July. To note, the official and Caixin surveys have different samples, with the Caixin PMI focusing on export-oriented enterprises and SMEs in the country's coastal region. Meanwhile, CPI rose +0.4% in August against a +0.5% increase in July, while on a yoy basis, the CPI rose by +0.6% in August, accelerating slightly from the +0.5% increase in July. The producer price index (PPI) decreased by -1.8% in August, compared to -0.8% in July.

Malaysia Highlights

④ Malaysia: CPI remained unchanged in July

In July 2024, Malaysia's headline inflation was unchanged at +2.0% yoy (June: +2.0%), despite the introduction of diesel subsidy rationalization. This was mainly due to the moderation in food price inflation that counterbalanced the rise in prices of other items particularly services during the month.

④ Malaysia: Stronger-than-expected trade performance in July

Both exports (July: +12.3%, June: +1.7%) and imports (July: +25.4%, June: +17.8%) jumped the most since 4Q22 in July, partly due to year-ago low base effects. As imports significantly outpaced exports, trade surplus dropped to the lowest level not seen since Apr 2020 at +RM6.4bn (from +RM14.2bn in June).

Market Performance

- ❶ Shanghai Shenzhen CSI300 Index declined -3.5% mom due to poor economic data and the lack of anticipated stimulus from the Third Plenum Meeting. Nevertheless, low valuations for many Chinese stocks encouraged Asia-focused investors to cautiously return to the Chinese market. Energy outperformed, while technology, telco, and material lagged.
- ❷ Dow Jones Index gained +1.8%, S&P 500 rose +2.3% while Nasdaq advanced +0.7% in August, but the month began with extreme market volatility and some sharp stock market falls. Investors reacted to weak US data earlier, but subsequent data and strong corporate earnings in the month offered some reassurance. Consumer staples, real estate and healthcare led gains, while energy and consumer discretionary sectors fell.
- ❸ Euro Stoxx 50 Index gained +1.7% mom in August. Real estate and communication services sectors saw gains, while energy and information technology sectors experienced negative returns. Expectations of further interest rate cuts helped to boost rate-sensitive sectors such as real estate.
- ❹ Nikkei 225 Index lost -1.2% mom after a sharp sell-off in the early part of the month, associated with a sharp movement in the yen. Despite the market turbulence, corporate earnings and macroeconomic figures showed solid progress. Japanese GDP growth also provided evidence of solid economic growth, supported by domestic demand, with an expansion of 0.8% qoq for the second quarter. By industry sector, shipping, retail, and precision products rose, while banks, securities, and metal products fell.
- ❺ FBMKLCI Index gained 3.3% mom in August and closed at 1,678.80. However, the Small Cap Index fell by 10.1%, and the Mid 70 Index decreased by 5.7%. In terms of fund flow, foreign investors stayed net buyers in August, with net buy flows of RM2.5bn, almost double the net buy flows in July of RM1.3bn. Sector-wise, the top performers were Finance and Plantation, with gains of 8.5% and 1.5% mom, respectively. Laggards were Technology, Construction and Property, declining by -14.9%, -10.6%, and -9.1% mom, respectively.

Currency

- ❶ USDCNY: CNY gained +1.9% against USD in August due to weaker dollar (DXY lost -2.3% to 101.7 in August). The CNY had also benefited from the narrowing of the 2-year China-US negative yield differential (August average: -239.0 bps; July: -292.0 bps).
- ❷ USDJPY: JPY appreciated by +2.5% in August driven by the unwinding of carry trades following the Bank of Japan's (BoJ) unexpected rate hike in late July and the Fed's indication of a potential rate cut in early August.
- ❸ USDMYR: MYR gained +5.9% mom mainly due to weaker dollar. Separately, MYR continued to benefit from favourable domestic macro.

Market Outlook

- The market is expecting a Federal Reserve rate cut in September and is pricing in 75bps to 100bps rate cut by year-end. Additionally, we will keep an eye on US election developments, as elevated uncertainty leading up to the November election and unexpected campaign events in late 3Q and 4Q could create market volatility, impacting sector positioning and security selection. In the long term, we believe the US market remains strong, supported by the resilience of corporate earnings. Additionally, the deeply discounted valuations in the Chinese market present potential for a mean reversion trade.
- Locally, the 2Q24 earnings season largely met expectations. Sector-wise, Technology sector was the main disappointment, grappling with lower-than-anticipated utilization rates, profit margins, and a strong Ringgit. Conversely, the Oil & Gas sector delivered the most positive surprises, while the Banking sector posted better results thanks to higher non-interest income. Other sectors generated good normalised profit growth including Construction, Energy, Healthcare, Real Estate, Transport and Utilities. We remain optimistic about Malaysia, driven by potential U.S. rate cuts, the formalization of the Johor-Singapore Special Economic Zone, and sustained policy execution (National Semiconductor Strategy, petrol subsidy rationalisation).
- September has historically been a challenging month for investments. Seasonality could be one of the main factors. This year, volatility could be heightened as we anticipate a potential Fed rate cut in September and the upcoming US Presidential Election in November. While historical patterns might suggest potential market vulnerabilities, it is essential to remember that past performance does not imply future returns. We believe investors should stay invested for the long term and ignore the short-term volatilities.

Review

- Performance Overview – Our portfolio lost 5.4%, underperforming the benchmark monthly return rate of 0.4%. Meanwhile, most of the funds within our portfolio recorded negative returns for the month of August 2024.
- Top Performer – AmDynamic Bond Fund – The fund's outperformance was attributed to the more conservative nature of bonds relative to equities.
- Worst Performer – RHB Thematic Growth Fund – The fund's underperformance was attributed to its high exposure to Tech stocks (Tech index was down 15% in August).
- Allocation – In August, we reduced bond exposure (AmDynamic Bond Fund) to bolster cash reserves in anticipation of potential market weakness. We will continue to monitor the performance of the funds and rebalance the portfolio, when necessary, in line with the market condition.

Vietnam's valuation is currently low at 9x P/E, 1 s.d. below the 10-year average. Vietnam stands to benefit from robust economic growth and strong net FDI inflows. A potential upgrade from a frontier market to an emerging market could be a significant catalyst. Finally, we reduced bond exposure (AHAM Bond Fund) to bolster cash reserves in anticipation of potential market weakness. We will continue to monitor the performance of the funds and rebalance the portfolio, when necessary, in line with the market condition.

YTD Review – Conventional

- Top performer: AHAM Select Opportunity – The fund's strong performance is attributed to overweight positions in Banking and Industrial sectors.
- Worst performer: Manulife Investment Asia-Pacific REIT - Underperformance was due to investors reassessing their aggressive bets on the timing and magnitude of potential US rate cuts in 2024 while HK/China property sector may take longer than expected to recover.

YTD Review – Islamic

- Top performer: Kenanga Syariah Growth – The fund's outperformance was attributed to its strong convictions in the Industrial and Technology sectors.
- Worst performer: Eastspring Investments Dinasti Equity – China's weak market performance was driven by poor economic data and the lack of anticipated stimulus from the Third Plenum Meeting.
