FUND MANAGER'S COMMENT

As we enter June, equities may face headwinds in the near term due to rising geopolitical tensions, persistent inflationary pressures, and a slowdown in global economic growth. Trade negotiations are ongoing; however, a meaningful breakthrough appears unlikely before the 90-day tariff suspension expires on July 8 – a key milestone that could trigger new policy shifts. In the interim, markets may experience economic distortions stemming from pre-tariff stockpiling, supply chain disruptions, and decelerating growth, all of which could amplify earnings volatility. While several central banks have begun easing monetary policy, the US Fed has yet to follow suit. Investors are anticipating a potential Fed rate cut later this year, particularly in light of the US economy contracting by 0.3% in the first quarter of 2025 – its first decline since early 2022, and a high US debt ($36tn). Although rate cuts could help underpin equity valuations, lingering trade uncertainties and uneven regional growth may continue to dampen investor sentiment. Against this backdrop, we emphasize the importance of diversification and a focus on quality amid volatility.

Locally, following a subdued May results season, we expect the market to adopt a wait-and-see approach amid continued foreign net outflows and political uncertainty under the Madani government ahead of the Sabah state election by end-2025. Furthermore, sentiment remains cautious due to concerns over a tariff-driven global slowdown, legal uncertainties tied to Trump's trade policies, and potential domestic cost pressures from higher SST, RON95 fuel prices, and electricity tariffs in 2H25. Despite these headwinds, strong domestic liquidity, a gradually strengthening ringgit (+4.8% YTD vs USD), and government initiatives such as NETR, JS-SEZ, and NIMP 2030 could help cushion downside risks and support selective buying opportunities in the near term.
