FUND MANAGER'S COMMENT

We remain neutral on global equities, mainly the US, as elevated valuations and heavy concentration in a few mega-cap technology names limit broad market upside despite still-robust earnings growth. However, we remain constructive on Asia Pacific ex-Japan equities, particularly in North Asia, supported by a weaker US dollar and a more dovish Federal Reserve. Further easing by the Fed would give Asian central banks greater flexibility to lower interest rates, which in turn could further support regional market sentiment. We maintain a barbell strategy through 2025, combining quality growth opportunities with defensive income assets to navigate potential volatility.

We remain constructive on the Malaysia market, supported by multiple tailwinds. Expectations of a Fed easing cycle from 4Q25 into 2026 should improve global liquidity and risk appetite across Asia. Furthermore, Malaysia's growth outlook remains supported by resilient fundamentals, firm consumption, rising investments, and ongoing structural reforms under key national blueprints. In the near term, the KLCI may face volatility as investors assess the post-Sabah election outcome and the likelihood of a cabinet reshuffle, which could strengthen Federal-Sabah ties and signal greater inclusivity. With Hajiji Noor sworn in for a second term, the new coalition government is expected to align more closely with the PM's Madani administration and national priorities. Looking further ahead, firm local institutional demand, a stronger ringgit, undemanding CY26 P/E of 14.2x, and historically low foreign ownership of 19.0% (as of November 2025) continue to underpin an attractive risk-reward backdrop.
