*The portfolio performance is based on a composite of all individual portfolios under the same mandate type and does not represent any specific portfolio. Returns are calculated using a composite Time-Weighted Rate of Return (TWRR), with individual portfolio returns weighted by their beginning-of-period asset values to account for varying portfolio sizes and cash flows. For more details on how the composite return is derived, please refer to the article titled "Understanding Private Mandate" on www.phillipinvest.com.my.

FUND MANAGER'S COMMENT

Data as of 30 September 2026

The FBM KLCI Index declined by 4.3% month-on-month (m-o-m) in September, closing at 1,651.17 points. Meanwhile, the FBM Hijrah Shariah Index fell by 2.6% in September, while the Mid 70 Index and Small Cap Index declined by 2.6% and 1.0%, respectively. Sector-wise in September, the Energy sector was the best performer, rising 8.7% m-o-m, followed by Construction (+7.1%) and Utilities (+2.9%). Conversely, the Property sector was the worst performer, declining 7.5%, while Consumer and Finance fell 6.5% and 5.1%, respectively. Within the KLCI, the top three gainers for September were Gamuda Bhd (+14.9%), Telekom Malaysia Bhd (+4.7%), and YTL Power International Bhd (+2.8%). Meanwhile, the top three decliners were Sunway Bhd (-13.3%), RHB Bank Bhd (-11.9%), and IOI Properties Group Bhd (-10.8%).

Malaysia's macroeconomic backdrop remained resilient in September, supported by healthy domestic demand, stable inflation, and ongoing investment activity. Headline inflation edged higher to 1.9% year-on-year in August 2026 (July: 1.8%), although price pressures remained broadly manageable amid continued subsidy support and contained core inflation. Higher crude oil prices during the month, with Brent crude oil rising above US$100 per barrel, provided a supportive backdrop for the domestic oil and gas sector, while the plantation sector continued to benefit from relatively elevated crude palm oil prices despite a modest monthly correction. The services and manufacturing sectors remained key growth drivers, supported by sustained investment in digital infrastructure, data centres, and artificial intelligence-related projects.

Separately, the FBM KLCI fell 4.3% in September amid weaker regional sentiment. Limited progress in de-escalating Middle East tensions, coupled with higher-for-longer US interest rates and elevated energy prices, reinforced inflationary concerns which supported a firmer US dollar. Beyond external headwinds, the prospect of an early GE16 raised political risk premiums, compounding foreign fund outflows. Nevertheless, Malaysia's economic fundamentals remained supported by resilient domestic consumption, healthy investment momentum, and continued progress in strategic infrastructure and industrial development initiatives.
